SUMMIT

LITERARY SEGMENT
STUDY GUIDE

Book Trailers · Poetry Recitals
Dramatic Storytelling · Character Dress-Ups

INTRODUCTION

- The literary segment of Summit has three major categories and one filler. The categories are book trailers, poetry recitals, and dramatic storytelling, while the filler is character dress-ups. All of these categories aim to enhance the candidates' ability to comprehend, analyze, and explain various complex topics and aspects of media.

1. BOOK TRAILERS

Submission deadline: 20th November

- The selected book must be appropriate and align with Islamic views. It cannot include graphic content, and must be submitted to and accepted by the society president or lead before the trailer is made.
- The trailer must be in media form: recordings (keeping school policies in mind), illustrations, or other means if accepted.
- It must be no longer than 2–3 minutes, and engaging enough to keep the audience interested until the very end.
- The three best trailers go forward and are presented on the final day of Summit.
- Possible prompts: Frankenstein by Mary Shelley; The Picture of Dorian Gray by Oscar Wilde; Fahrenheit 451 by Ray Bradbury; The Book Thief by Markus Zusak.
- STUDY: Candidates must have read their books and have full knowledge of the plot and content.

2. POETRY RECITALS

First round: mid-November

- The three finalists proceed to the final day of Summit and recite their works on stage.
- Works must be the original writing of the candidate.
- Selected candidates have one week before Summit to write on the given topic and must submit the work to the society leads.
- Works must be accepted to be presented at Summit.
- STUDY: Candidates must be capable of writing impromptu poetry with the aid of word banks alone.

3. DRAMATIC STORYTELLING

Auditions: Tuesday 10 November – Friday 20 November

- The competition has two sub-categories: English medium and Urdu medium. Each medium has two speakers working in pairs.
- Pairs select their own scenes from appropriate books in their medium. The scene must have two and only two characters, and each speaker acts as one character.

- The scene must be no longer than five minutes.
- The award is presented to the best medium of storytelling between English and Urdu.
- Possible prompts (English): 1984 – the conversation between Winston Smith and O'Brien, where O'Brien demands Winston accept the Party; Fahrenheit 451 – Beatty confronts Montag about his secret book hoarding and, instead of arresting him immediately, uses his knowledge of literature to justify why all books must be burned.
- Possible prompts (Urdu): Suhaye – in a quiet room in Lahore while street riots begin because of partition tensions, Jugal casually mentions, while drinking, that he might have to kill Mumtaz.
- STUDY: Speakers must be able to analyze scene emotions and portray them dramatically, with full knowledge of their characters and scenes.

4. FILLER – CHARACTER DRESS-UPS

Auditions: Tuesday 10 November – Friday 20 November

- Each candidate chooses one character from any appropriate book (English or Urdu) to cosplay as, and prepares the costume themselves.
- Three candidates from the auditions go to the final day of Summit. They are called to the stage and give a three-minute interview as their character.
- Possible ideas: The Mad Hatter from Alice in Wonderland; characters from J.R.R. Tolkien's books; comic characters; characters from Shakespeare's works such as Hamlet.
- Costumes are not required for auditions, but costume plans must be shown, and the finished costumes must be shown to the society leads before Summit.
- STUDY: Candidates must know their characters fully, portray them accurately in front of an audience, and be capable of making their own costumes.
